In the line of duty

Volunteer dies after fighting fire

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A 24-year veteran of the Romulus Fire Department died after fighting a blaze on the rooftop of a local apartment complex early Sunday morning.

Leonard Gierak, 57, of Northline Road in Romulus apparently suffered a heart attack after fighting a blaze on Redwood Street, south of Eureka Road in Romulus, according to city officials.

A total of 15 firefighters from three Romulus fire stations were summoned to the scene about 1:31 a.m. Sunday, according to Fire Chief William Greenslait.

"He apparently became ill at the scene and was last seen sitting in the rescue vehicle. He drove himself home without telling anybody. He was found lying in the driveway by his wife," said Greenslait.

"Mr. Gierak was transported by Taylor Ambulance to Heritage Hospital where he was pronounced dead-on-arrival. We do not know the cause of death and have no other information at this time," Greenslait stated.

"This is the first time a Romulus firefighter has died in the line of duty. The department and the city of Romulus will conduct a full military funeral for Mr. Gierak," added Greenslait.

Funeral services for Mr. Gierak are scheduled today at 10 a.m. in St. Aloysius Church on Ozga Road in Romulus. Arrangements were made by Lents Funeral Home in Wayne.

He will be buried in St. Hedwig Cemetery in Dearborn.

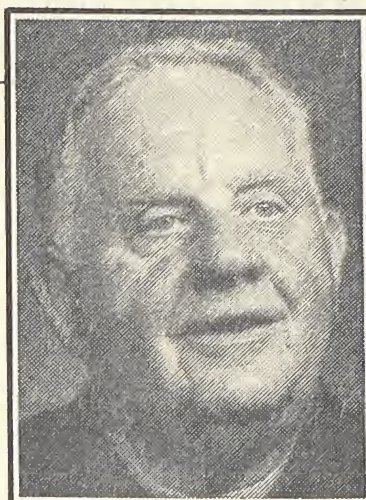

He is survived by his wife of 28 years, Dorothy. They have three children, Robert 27, Marty, 26, and Karen, 25, and one grandchild, Jason, 5.

"He lived next door to the house where he grew up," his daughter Karen noted. "He was a person loved by all who met him. He had the biggest heart. Everybody in town knew him. He was just that kind of guy."

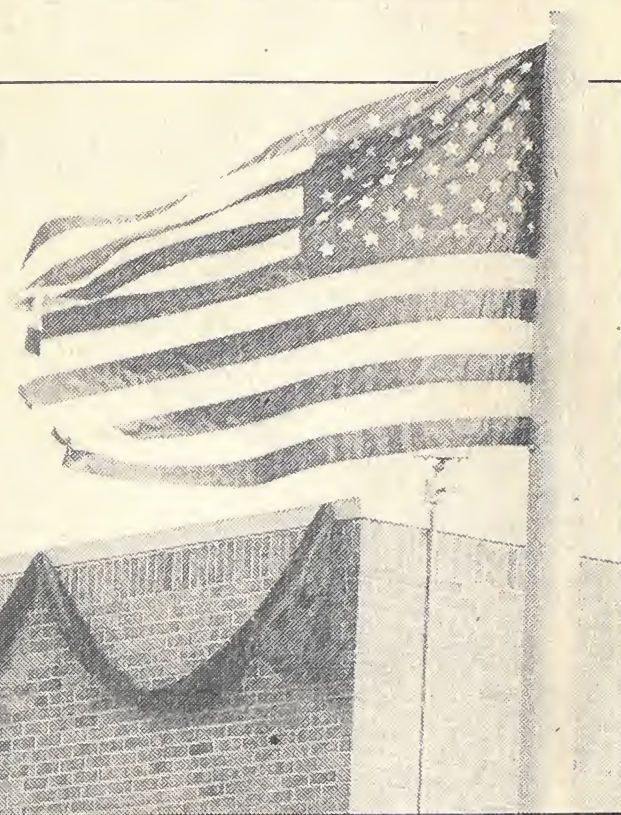

Mr. Gierak served for many years as a member in both the Polish Legion of American Veterans and the Gregorian Club of St. Aloysius Church in Romulus.

He retired after 34 years with Whitehead and Kale where he

Residents rip local police protection; speeding problems

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

One resident stormed out of council chambers Monday night loudly declaring his dissatisfaction with the Romulus Police Department following three robberies at his home.

He was one of more than a dozen residents from the Meadows subdivision in southeast Romulus who attended the scheduled council meeting and presented petitions filled with 260 signatures to members of the council.

Residents expressed their concerns regarding speeding cars in the area. On May 17, a motorcycle accident in the neighborhood left an 18-year-old youth paralyzed from the waist down.

"If there was a patrol car in the area, maybe this wouldn't have happened. Leroy Street is nothing but a drag strip. Let's get our neighborhood back in control," said one woman resident.

One by one, residents addressed members of council with similar versions of the speeding problem in their subdivision and the lack of intervention by police.

"Stop signs are torn down, knocked down and never replaced," said Paul Manikowski of Harrison Road. "We need reinforcement from local police," he said.

Another resident said, "It's Detroit dragway out there. I'm not an expert, but they're driving 60 miles an hour. Take a ride through the subdivision and at any intersection see the tire tracks. We live across from Halecreek School. They drive around the school all night long. Why aren't the cops in this part of the city?"

The same resident noted that a stop sign has been missing from the intersection of Burning Tree and Farnum for two years. Another sign has been gone for seven years.

"We're getting fed up. We want the police officers there and we want them now," the resident said.

Residents talked about the slow response time from the police department.

Dennis Robbins, a five-year resident said, "I've been broken into three times. It took the police 45 minutes to get there. In one break-in, our house was burned. Our insurance was cancelled. To me, this means

"If there was a patrol car in the area, maybe this wouldn't have happened. Leroy Street is nothing but a drag strip. Let's get our neighborhood back in control."

this is a high risk area. We're getting nothing from the Romulus police. When you call a cop, they sit there. 'What can we do about it?' I'm tired of these punks messing around. Something has to be done."

"I think the Romulus police should correct this problem or let's get back the Wayne County Sheriff," said James Crova of Woodmont Street.

"It's the same people night after night, always at the same time. I've had to use a garden hose to scare them out of here," said Robert Calvin of Riverbridge Street.

Gregory Johnson of Burning Tree began the petition drive. "My house is the one where the car came through the living room and caused $6,000 worth of damage. It was my tree that the 18-year-old boy wrapped himself around and became paralyzed from the waist down. It's a perfect drag strip."

"The general consensus among my neighbors and myself, we're in favor of getting rid of the Romulus Police Department and getting back the Wayne County Sheriff. I'm fed up and want something done," he stated.

According to an eyewitness resident, it took 20 minutes for Romulus police to respond to the scene of the motorcycle accident and 30 minutes for the ambulance to arrive. "Watch-

Correction

Police officer Jeffrey Lazarski of Romulus was incorrectly identified as the driver of a stolen car which demolished a police car during a high-speed chase in a front page story last week.

Lazarski was, in fact, one of the arresting officers at the scene and was not involved in any criminal activity.

Freedom flies on the fourth

"It was an absolutely dazzling show. It would blow your mind. Really fantastic!" said Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks of the fireworks display. The show climaxed a day of fun beginning with a parade down Goddard Road and the annual Fourth of July City Picnic at Elmer Johnson Park. "It was a beautiful day," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. "The parade was perfect, not too big, not too long, but like a little home town with everybody participating. "People packed the park. The whole day was extra special this year. A lot of people wanted to be part of it and that means a lot," she said. Jessie Shoupe, 5, pictured left, and his cousin Christopher, 3, Shoupe, both of Romaine Street were all smiles as they rode down main street in Romulus. See related photos on page 3. ## Deadline approaches for candidates

As election time in Romulus slowly approaches, the pace of the race among local candidates is picking up speed. So far, at least 20 individuals have requested petitions for such offices as mayor, city clerk, treasurer and the seven city council seats.

"A primary could easily happen," said City Clerk Linda Choate as she noted that when three or more people file petitions for the offices of mayor, clerk or treasurer, and if more than 15 people file for city council, state law requires a primary.

So far, only Beverly McAnally has drawn a petition for mayor, and only Linda Choate has drawn a petition for city clerk. However, both John Lewkowicz and James Napierkowski have drawn petitions for treasurer. No primary is necessary here yet.

So far, 15 residents have expressed interest toward a seat on the city council. They include all incumbents: Barry Baumann, Alan Lambert, William Wadsworth, Fred Junior Block, Ellis Pennington, Mary Ann Banks and Pete Bergeron. And the challengers are: Randolph Gear, Kristine DeTroyer, Judith Ellis, Melvin Zilka, Michael Woods, Eva Webb, Jimmie Raspberry and Ronald Dubsky.

According to Choate, Dennis Davidson pulled a petition but did not indicate at the time which office he is seeking. Petitions can be picked up anywhere, including in other cities or the county clerk's office. Petitions must specify which public office is being sought before signatures are obtained, she noted.

The petition filing deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday, July 28. So far, only Wadsworth and Banks have filed.

Should a primary be conducted as required by state law, it would be scheduled the first Tuesday after the second Monday in September which is Sept. 15 this year.

"During an odd-year election, the candidates running for public office are completely local," Choate said.

Holiday weekend begins with 2 robberies

Romulus police doubled the number of robbery calls made for the month of June in just four hours July 2.

With only one robbery call reported last month, police were called to two separate sites last week where robberies had occurred.

Police received the first call about 4:05 a.m. from a gas station on Goddard Road near Wayne.

The suspect apparently walked up to an outside window and produced what appeared to be the chrome barrel of a gun. It was barely visible from his pocket.

The suspect said, according to police, "This is a holdup. I want all the money from the register or I'll shoot." The attendant produced the money and the suspect fled on foot. No vehicle was seen.

Four hours later, at another gas station on the corner of Wick and Wayne roads, police responded to the scene where the suspect was described as a black male about 25 years old and medium build.

The suspect was carrying some kind of long gun or rifle wrapped in blue plastic. He entered the station, laid the weapon on the counter and announced this is a holdup.

The attendant complied and handed the man the money.

He walked out the door on foot and disappeared.

news in brief

Senior center nets added grant funding

BELLEVILLE — Some $4,350 in state Commission on Services to the Aging grant monies has been turned over to Belleville and Sumpter Township.

The funding is part of $400,000 in grants awarded to 61 state senior centers for emergency needs, senior center renovation and materials.

The two communities operate the September Days Senior Citizens Center.

Conference director heads wetland force

LANSING — Conference of Western Wayne Director Ann Bolin has been named to serve on a 14-member Wetland Permit Process Review Committee, according to state Department of Natural Resources officials.

Bolin will join the members of the group in studying the wetlands permitting process in the state and report back to the state DNR in 120 days. Gordon Guyer, DNR director, said that the purpose of the committee is to streamline service delivery and to increase effectiveness in the granting of state wetlands permits.

A wetland, under state law, is an area reserved for the growth of aquatic and plant life such as in ponds, marshes and bogs. State law prohibits developers from building on any land termed a wetland unless a waiver permit is secured from the DNR.

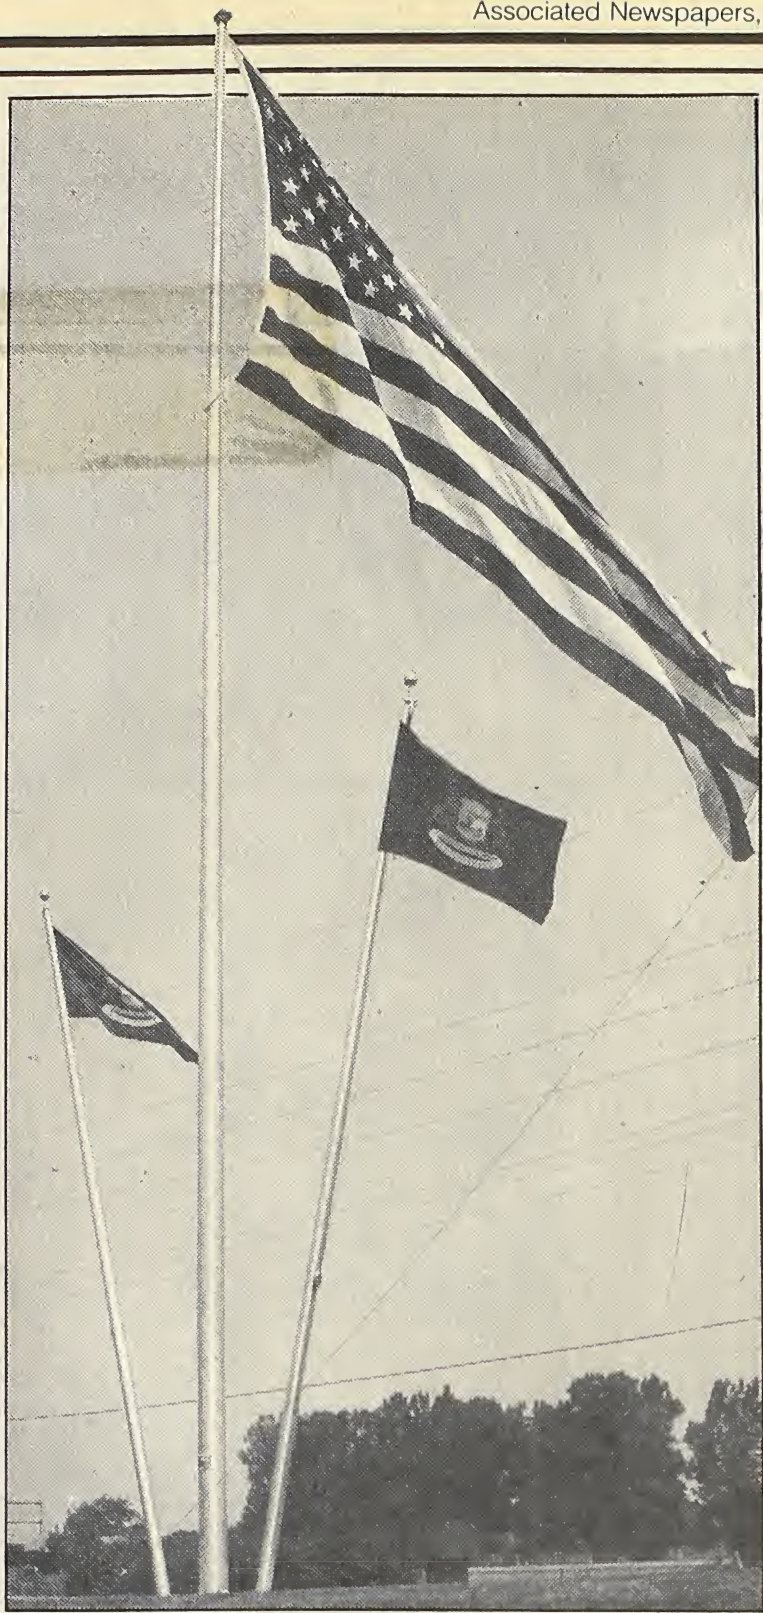

The wetlands problem has caused the cancellation of a multi-million dollar proposed Ford Motor Co. plant in Van Buren Township and threatened construction of a $60 million industrial development in the city of Wayne.

The Conference of Western Wayne is a joint advocacy group among several communities located in western Wayne County.

Military academy nominees are sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) has announced a Nov. 1 deadline for accepting applications for men and women of the local 15th Congressional District to enter the United States military academies.

For more information, call 722-1411.

The 20-by-40-foot flag flying over the Harbour Club Ltd. apartment complex on I-94 has attracted a great deal of attention from motorists, according to Karen Runyon, assistant manager.

County road plan to hike gas taxes

No action was taken on a package of road funding bills prior to the summer adjournment of the state Legislature.

The road funding plan, proposed by Wayne County, has received the support of the Downriver Community Conference and approximately 11 communities, according to Colleen Minter, public relations director. No official support was given by the Conference of Western Wayne.

The package of bills includes a two cent per gallon gas hike — an increase that Gov. James Blanchard has indicated that he will not support.

According to county officials "the level of growth has outpaced the ability of the Wayne County Office of Public Services to provide needed county road maintenance and improvements."

Legislative adoption of the funding package proposed by the Urban Association of County Road Commissioners would permanently remove the existing cap on the state fuel tax and, if necessary, adjust the base to generate two cents of additional tax for the next three years. It would also increase the Michigan Transportation Fund by 15 percent in 1987 through the additional fuel tax and the reduction of discounts and administrative fees, and increase the urban percentage of the road commission internal formula from 10 percent to 15 percent.

Solution needed Conference studies area trash

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

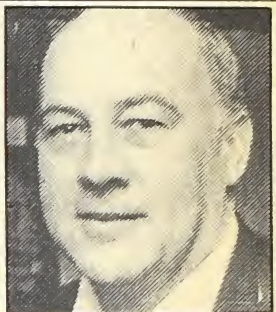

A garbage-laden barge from New York, which was rejected by several states and foreign countries, made international headlines recently. However, Canton Township Supervisor Jim Poole told members of the Conference of Western Wayne that the local landfill problem — while not as dramatically publicized — is also nearing a crisis like that of the "homeless barge."

"We (Wayne County landfills) regularly take more trash from New York than is on that barge."

Poole, who heads the CWW Solid Waste Task Force, told the members that garbage that is being hauled into the county from out-of-state and neighboring counties is having an impact on future landfill capacity for county residents.

CWW subcommittees are currently working on long-range plans to provide solid waste disposal facilities for the 17-member communities. Among the proposals being considered are establishing new landfills, expanding current ones, establishing incinerator authorities plus recycling and resource recovery.

"We regularly take more trash from New York than is on that barge."

Poole

Poole told the CWW members that the local landfills were said to have five years left before they filled to capacity. He said that, even though he serves on county-wide solid waste agencies, "I don't know how many years we have left, but I suspect that it may only be four or three."

The Canton supervisor suggested that the CWW take steps to halt the shipments of solid waste material into Wayne County. He asked that the CWW place the item on the July agenda for consideration. "It would be proper protocol to advise County Executive (Edward) McNamara that it will be on the agenda," Poole said, noting that the proposed ban should come from the county level.

ing the pain of that young boy was the worst thing you ever experienced," said a Burning Tree resident.

Another resident recalled a fight on Memorial Day near Woodmont and Orchard when it took Romulus Police two hours to respond. "What good does it do to have a police department?" he asked.

"Many subdivisions have similar problems," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. She explained that the Romulus Police Department was put together "over night" four years ago after the Wayne County Sheriff, who formerly patrolled Romulus streets, "quit the city."

"We did not dismiss them," she said. "If Romulus residents want the Sheriff's Patrol, I would have to see a referendum on the ballot. The indication I get from people is they want good protection and don't care who provides it."

"Romulus is 36 square miles. We have 40 officers on three shifts. We advertise and test regularly for police officers. They're not easy to come by. We've spent lots of your money establishing this police department. A man who carries a gun has the power of life and death over us. Are you telling me we should lower the standards? I feel there's a lot of good happening in this city. But I don't want it at the expense of the subdivision residents and, I don't like to apologize for our police department," McAnally said.

A survey from Deputy Chief Leonard Rukkila, Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks noted, indicates police have been patrolling the area and issuing tickets. "We can't put a man on every corner. But what can we do to beef up patrols?" she asked.

"When people are told there's nothing they can do, this has to stop," said Councilman William Wadsworth, also a Wayne County Sheriff. "We have to put the emphasis back in the subdivisions where the people are. If residents want a referendum on the ballot to call back the sheriff, they should have it."

"I guarantee you, we'll do something," said McAnally.

The mayor has scheduled a meeting for area residents at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 16 in Halcreek School on Harrison Road. At that time, residents will discuss solutions to the immediate problems as well as the possible implementation of a neighborhood watch program.

The parade is back

Local dogs die from virus

Several dogs in the neighborhood of Wellesley Townhouses have died recently and residents attribute the cause to the Parvo virus.

Sharon Belcher of Whitehorn Street said she is keeping her dog inside after her neighbor's dog died just last week and the dog behind her died several weeks earlier.

"The owner of the dog told me it was from Parvo. His dog was normally hyper and within two hours he became violently sick. We were told the entire Wellesley area would have to be sprayed. Dogs are more or less dying off one every couple weeks," said Belcher who owns a 4-month-old German Shepherd.

Parvo is a deadly virus especially in young animals. Dr. Tim Dobson, veterinarian with the Michigan Humane Society, said, "The virus affects the heart of young puppies but, it can affect any age. We have seen a lot of cases lately. This is the season for Parvo."

Symptoms of the virus come fast and hard, Dobson said. Severe gastrointestinal pain accompanied by diarrhea is most common with Parvo. In hot weather, the animal may appear semi-comatose.

"We have picked up some dead animals but the cause of death is not necessarily from Parvo . . ."

"Parvo is around all the time," said Neil Jones, Romulus animal control pound master. "We have picked up some dead animals but the cause of death is not necessarily from Parvo. Parvo is the type of virus transmitted from wherever the animal goes to the bathroom. People cannot get it and, it is not communicated through the air," he said.

He said that nine out of 10 times the animal has not been properly vaccinated. He added, "We haven't lost a single animal at the shelter. I don't think the situation is as bad as last year."

Dobson also noted there is no concentration of a Parvo outbreak in the surrounding communities. "There is no cure for Parvo. The virus is more prominent among puppies who are more susceptible to most diseases. Older dogs can catch it but often, it will pass and they survive," he said.

Vaccinations for young puppies should begin at eight weeks old and continue regularly for four months with a booster at six months and then in one year.

"Residents should practice good hygiene when dealing with dogs. Clean up after your dog. Don't walk them where other dogs run," added Dobson.

The Romulus Animal Shelter is open from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 4 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at Goddard Road behind city hall.

After animals are picked up by the shelter, they must be claimed in four days and then they are placed for adoption. Animals are housed in the shelter for a maximum of 10 days. State law only requires after animals are picked up they be retained for 72 hours. "We give an extra day," said Jones.

The beautiful butterfly

A colorful 20-foot butterfly is living in Romulus. Local residents are excited but not alarmed. "It's really beautiful," said one resident. The subject is a floral arrangement made of almost 1,000 plants, including begonias, marigolds and ageratum designed by Cherie and John Ozga, the owners of "On Growing," a local greenhouse on Ozga Road specializing in annual flowers. No question, "This has been a focal point of excitement for weekend shoppers," said John Ozga, 33. "We decided to undertake this project to provide inspiration to anyone who dreams of growing healthy, beautiful plants," he said. The butterfly was planted with 960 individual plants on April 12. "In many places throughout the world, sculptures are made out of flowers, why not in Romulus?" Cherie said. ANP photo by Bob Denys

"He was a dedicated firefighter," said Doug Wilhide, Romulus fire inspector and long time friend. "He had a certain way about him. He was always there. He kept the station clean and organized. When a truck returned from a fire, he was first to inspect the equipment. He was a workaholic."

Mr. Gierak was never injured during his lengthy firefighting career. "He was one of the lucky ones," said his daughter. "But he's seen many a good fire."

Sumpter rides on road repairs

Sumpter Township roads are in critical need of upgrading and officials hope that the new road program proposed by Wayne County will benefit the local area.

Following a presentation by Henry Lundquist of the Office of Public Services, the Sumpter Township Board passed a resolution supporting the program which includes a gasoline tax increase. The road program – a package of several bills – is currently before the state legislature.

The township seems to be in a “Catch-22” situation with road repairs, according to Supervisor Clarence Hoffman Jr. Road repairs have not been scheduled because the ditches need cleaning and township officials have been told that new roads would crumble if the drainage is not improved prior to construction.

Previously, Hoffman said, the township allocated block grant money for drain cleaning, but the township was informed by Wayne County officials that those funds can no longer be used for that purpose. On the other hand, the county did not assume the ditch cleaning project.

Hoffman said some projects are in the planning stages and he has met with County Executive Ed McNamara recently to ask for action on the township road problem.

Sumpter Queen nominees sought

Young women have 12 more days to submit their applications to compete in the Miss Sumpter Rodeo Queen contest.

which they participate. Prospective contestants also are asked to briefly explain why they would like to be Miss Sumpter.

The deadline for applications is July 20 and the judging will be conducted at 7 p.m. July 30 at the Sumpter Community Center. A teen dance is planned following the competition.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the office of Supervisor Clarence J. Hoffman Jr., 461-6201, ext. 208.

Belleville Police Chief Willard

Dockter received words of praise from the executive director of First Step, the agency which aids victims of domestic violence.

In a letter to the police chief, First Step Executive Director Judy Ellis said, “I commend you on the service you provided to a victim of domestic violence several weeks ago. Your decisive action may have saved her life.”

Ellis said the police chief's authorization of overtime had enabled an officer to transport the woman to a temporary shelter.

“First Step's work would be unsuccessful if officers and agencies did not have the open, caring attitude you demonstrated that evening,” Ellis added.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF VAN BUREN

SPECIAL BOARD MEETING MINUTES JUNE 26, 1987

Meeting called to order by Supervisor Hamilton at 9:15 a.m. Present: Hamilton, Foster, Hudson, Kuchta, and O'Brien. Absent and Excused: Dudick and Heifner. Others in attendance: Attorneys Schwartz and Trager, Engineers Lystra and Rothe, Financial advisor Mengden, First of Michigan representative Adams and Secretary Budd.

APPROVAL OF AGENDA: Motion O'Brien, support Foster to approve the agenda as presented. Carried.

OLD BUSINESS: Financing of the French Landing Dam repair discussed. There has been no word on the Senate passing of House Bill 4114. Public Act 188 would be the statutory authority to enable the Township to establish a special assessment district and generate revenue to repay bonds sold to cover the cost of Dam repairs. Timing is still the main concern. A special assessment district would include lake property owners and land parcels with direct benefit of the lake.

Act 202 (Municipal Finance Act) is a mechanic for municipalities to sell low floater bonds that are payable for short periods of time. This would enable assessments to be determined on the amount of revenue needed.

Attorney and financial director reminded the Board that the Michigan Bond Bank works only as a vehicle for the sale of bonds which have been approved through existing, enabling legislation.

Continued discussion regarding accurate public information on financing the dam repairs.

Motion O'Brien, support Kuchta to approve the resolution dedicating the $600,000 to the Dam for repairs on the contingency that the money passes the Senate and is received by the Township. Carried.

ADJOURNMENT: Motion Hudson, support Kuchta to adjourn at 11:30 a.m. Carried.

Government by the people

He was called Daffy Duck, and neighborhood residents could see the whimsical smiles the dapper duckling had brought to 12-year-old Michael Shopshear of Westland.

Michael received the "pet" as an Easter present in April and nurtured the quacking creature from its infancy, allowing the duckling to sleep in his room each night. The duck's name seemed all too appropriate for the Disneyland-style of story line that had been created in the Shopshear's Hazelwood Street home. But the storybook tale took a dramatic turn for the worse for Shopshear and his family last month as a nightmare unfolded, a nightmare that has brought countless animal lovers to Daffy's defense.

For Michael, Daffy was the best sort of pet. "He's quiet and doesn't bother anyone. A lot of people like to come by and feed him or watch him play in the yard," Michael said of his pet.

"Some of the things I really like about Daffy are the way he comes when I call him by name and how he jumps up to take pieces of bread from my hand."

But for one neighborhood resident, the duck was a nuisance, and a subsequent complaint to city officials meant that Daffy would be forced to find a new home.

Under Westland city ordinance, farm animals such as Daffy may be raised in an environment that includes at least one-half acre of land, "proper housing" and in an area that is at least 30 feet from any other residents. Unfortunately for the Shopshears, Daffy's urban abode doesn't quite fit the requirements of the city ordinance, and the resident complaining of the nuisance has a valid argument.

But let's put the situation back into perspective. Several Westland city officials have admitted that dozens of Westland residents "own" wild ducks, and still others keep mallards such as Daffy on their property without stirring up a hint of controversy in the community. But Daffy's case is another example of the pitfalls of truthfulness.

Had the Shopshears lied and said Daffy was a wild duck, the mallard malady might have promptly ended. Had the resident who complained of the duckling not squawked at the keeping of a 12-year-old's harmless pet, the situation would never have brewed. But, then again, hindsight is 20/20.

Westland ordinance officials cited the Shopshears for violating the animal code by failing to get rid of Daffy before a June 29 deadline. A court hearing date has been set for July 10 in the 18th District Court, and the Shopshears are prepared to do battle with the law in order to save the boy's feathered friend.

Meanwhile, Westland city officials are "taking the heat" for not bending from enforcing city ordinances and regulations. And we stand behind the city all the way.

Daffy's plight is a sad one, indeed. No one wants to see a youngster deprived of the pet to which he has given so much love and affection. No one likes to see a technicality of the law blow out of proportion the rights of everyday citizens.

But in this case, city officials are correct in enforcing the animal codes. As one city official put it, "Would you like to have pigs living next door? Goats? Chickens?" For most of us urban folks accustomed to only the family dog and cat, the barnyard style of living just wouldn't seem appropriate.

The Daffy Duck story goes far beyond a boy losing his pet. The case involves a test of democracy, a test to see whether the established law can withstand public pressure and ridicule.

The laws are meant for all people – duck owners as well as non-duck owners. Laws can be changed, revised, revamped and reworked. But they must be enforced. Unfortunately, enforcement sometimes means discrepancies in opinions and hurt feelings. But, in the end, we all benefit from a common set of values and rules on which to base our lives.

Daffy, we feel, must find a new home. Perhaps now, the neighborhood nuisance can be alleviated as residents begin following the law to the letter. But we have faith in Daffy.

Maybe Daffy will come out of the wild and fly back to the Shopshear's Hazelwood Street home. We all know that storybook tales such as this one must include a happy ending. And we, along with the Shopshears and dozens of readers, are going out on a wing and a prayer to see that this story is no exception.

The word on America

Last weekend as we celebrated the Fourth of July, there were the usual festivities. Cook-outs, fireworks, social gatherings, community flag waving and the like, helped us to center on the joyful birth of our nation. Not since the dawn of civilization has there existed anything of man's creation quite so magnificent as this union of states we call America.

I remain in awe of the natural majestic beauty of our land, fashioned by forces beyond our comprehension. Our buildings, industry, cultural heritage, transportation network and economy at large are also marvels to behold.

In the shadow of such splendor, I find it almost unbelievable and most distressing to realize that as a nation we have been forced to recognize publicly the unacceptable level of illiteracy in America today.

The good news is that we are beginning to realize the magnitude of the situation. As with any social problem, awareness heralds the change that tends to follow.

For any who feel a sense of pride in the spirit of liberty and justice that permeates the very fabric of America, it is almost painful to contemplate our national illiteracy.

It is our willingness to open our arms to the social and political refugees of the world that causes us some of our dilemma. Add to the quotient, a fixation with television which fosters a laxity in work ethic and limits the imagination. It is easier to watch and listen than to read, imagine, and visualize.

Round it all out with children left alone by two working parents, teachers who too often suffer from burnout or job dissatisfaction and the early departure from formal education by teen drop-outs.

We are in an age when we are projecting computer skills as one measure of literacy in the future and yet, here we are, publicly appealing to Americans via their favorite medium, television, to learn to read and write.

It is an uphill swim at best for journalists to attempt to communicate with those not conversant with the written language through a print media.

Illiteracy is a matter that must be dealt with and elevated to the top of our priority list if we are to maintain our place in the community of nations.

The price we will pay, ultimately, will be a society with a shrinking middle class as the lower class grows rapidly and the upper class is reserved for those who can afford to be educated. Such polarization as exists in so many other countries in the world can, and does in time, lead to social unrest and disturbance.

At the risk of beating the patriotic drum for a cause that is self serving to the newspaper industry, let me summarize.

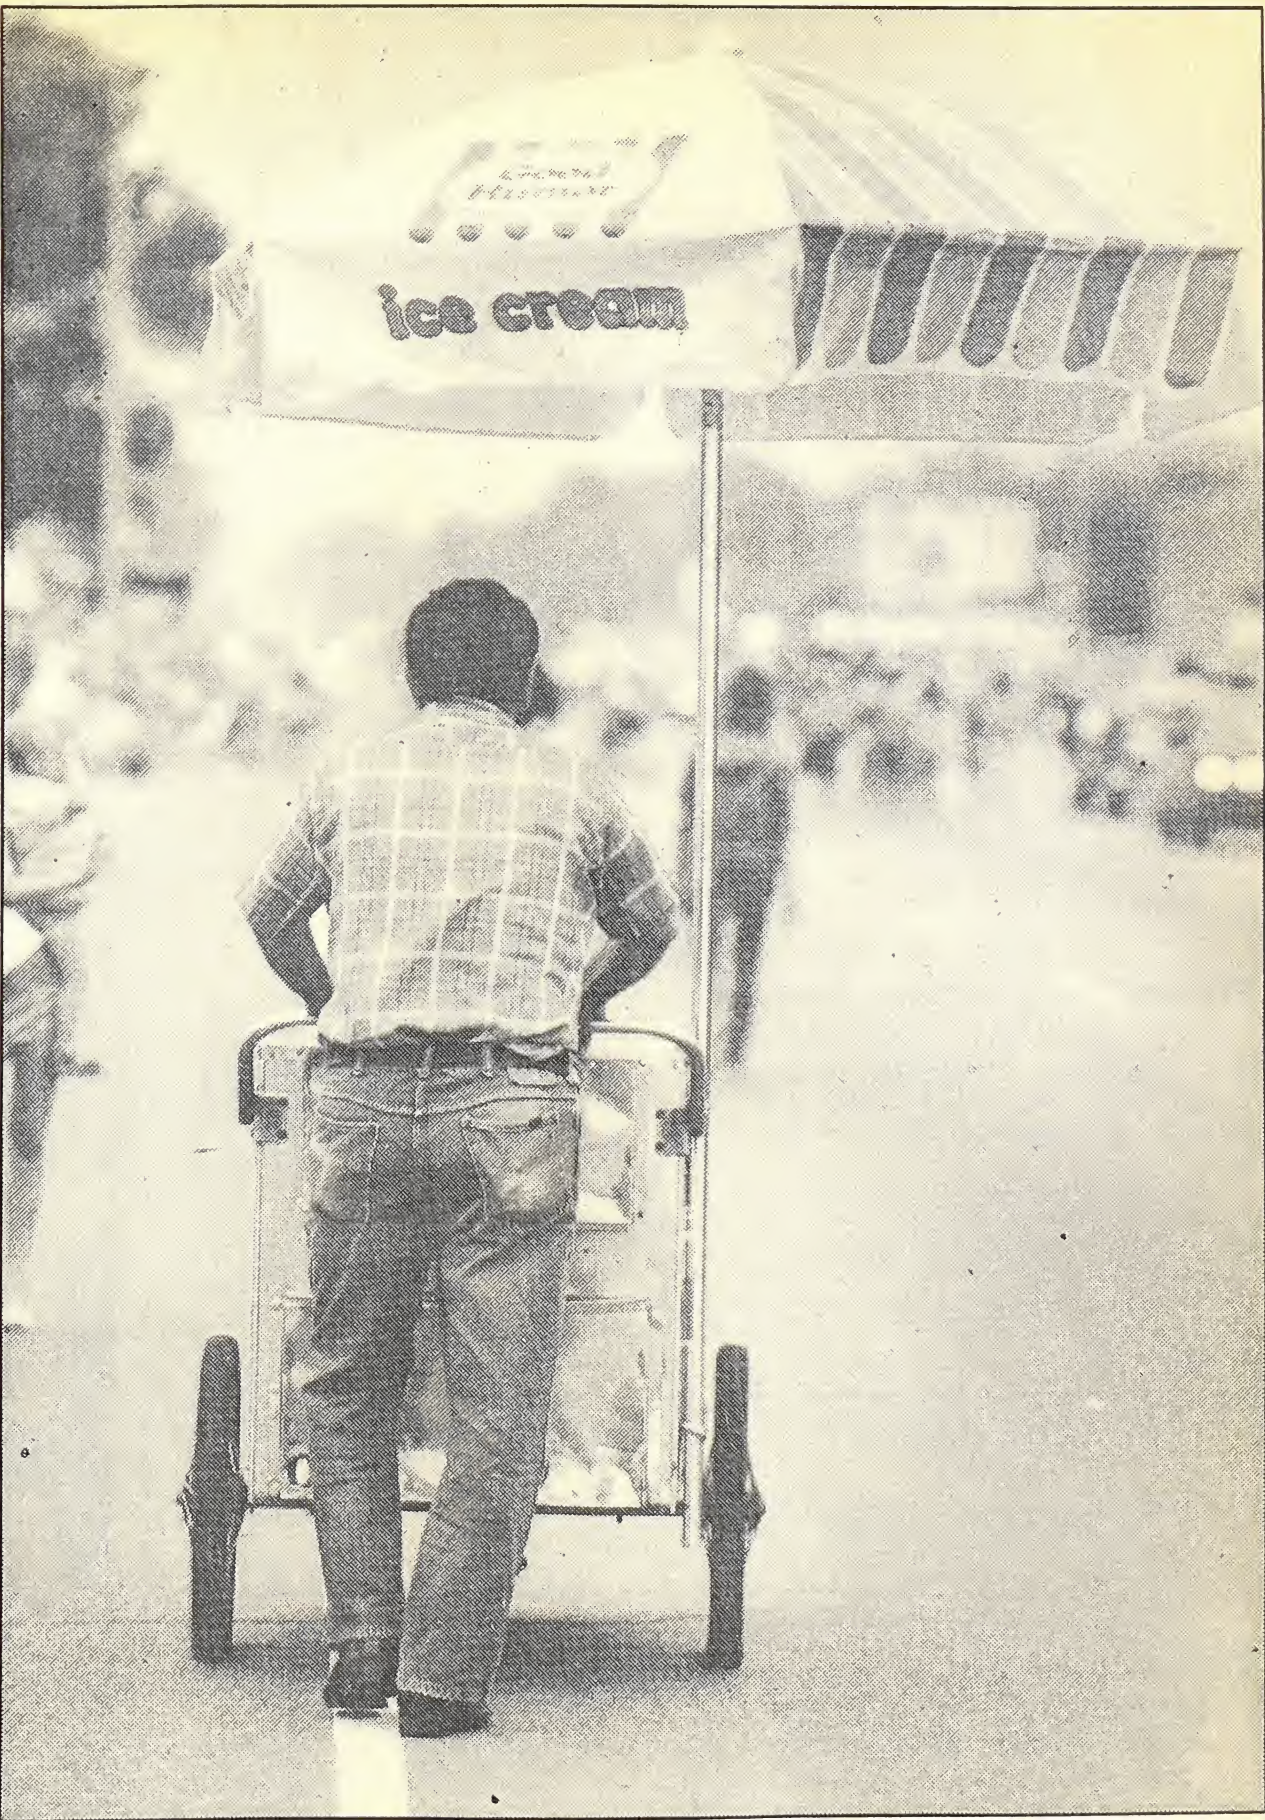

A free America can only remain free, a strong America can only remain strong, an America at peace with itself and with the world will only remain so if its citizens have the capacity to communicate with each other and with the world, in its chosen language.

For to fail to do so can only add to misunderstandings, internal struggle and world tension. Here's to an ever stronger America. May it live in peace for 2,000 years.

See you next week.

Good Humor

... and for the people

Better to be safe than sorry.

Canton Township officials should remember that cliché when deciding whether to go ahead with an advisory election in September. The election, which would be staged in conjunction with the Sept. 15 primary election for township board offices, would serve as a public-opinion-type polling of the voters' views on issues such as new township employee disciplinary procedures, a dramatic change in the township form of government as well as alterations to the salaries of the township supervisor, treasurer and clerk.

Township Clerk Linda Chuhuran has refused to prepare for the election, pending word from the township attorneys on the legality of an advisory election. Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley has said that these types of elections - in which the township board members would not be forced to abide by the decisions made by the voters - are not recommended in the state of Michigan. However, an appeal of that decision in the state Appellate Court has not yet been made final.

Some board members are charging Chuhuran with stalling an election in which her job is affected. A few board members walked out of the board meeting recently while the clerk gave her reasons for "stalling the election." Despite the ongoing, outrageous and unnecessary battle being fought by the clerk, board and Supervisor Jim Poole, we believe a further legal opinion on such an advisory election would be wise and in the best interest of the voters.

The state Attorney General serves a purpose - to interpret legislation passed by the state Legislature. His opinions do not always have to be favored by a majority of the people or local government leaders. However, a complete disregard of his findings would be foolish since the correct appeal of such an Attorney General decision is handled in the state court system.

Furthermore, we, like the Attorney General, question the usefulness of any election in which the results may or may not be used to project the actual decision being made. Such advisory elections seem to be in direct conflict with the "by the people, for the people" type of democracy on which this country was founded. If the local governmental leaders feel the matter is important enough to let the voters decide for themselves, these same leaders should also be required to accept the vote of the people in its entirety.

Allowing advisory elections could set a dangerous precedent in this country that may someday lead to dictatorships and anarchies. Elections are not ceremonial maneuvers the average citizen partakes in just to feel he is a part of the governmental process. Elections are the mainstay and predominant source of freedom built into the very heart of this country.

And on the eve of the 200th birthday of the signing of the Constitution, we should all be looking for ways to show thanks for our freedom and not be finding ways to limit it through a pointless advisory election.

Flying group spreads wings

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Flying fans and aircraft enthusiasts can find an extensive display of aviation history "in their own backyard."

The Yankee Air Museum, located at Willow Run Airport, includes a display of aircraft, a library and rooms devoted to specific periods of aviation history - World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam and women in aviation.

The historic site of the museum is the airfield built in 1941 to serve the Ford Motor Co. B-24 bomber plant. A major goal of the museum staff is to restore one of the 8,600 B-24 bombers which were built at the plant.

Among the planes owned by the YAM is a 1945 "Yankee Doodle Dandy," described as the flagship of the Yankee Air Force. The aircraft (DC-3) has been fully restored to original military conditions and participates in air shows, parades and numerous events throughout the country. Also on display is a Boeing built B-17G which is one of the few remaining planes of its type in flying condition, a F-86L and a F-84F. Planes also are on loan from the U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Air Force and private owners.

Displayed is a B-52D Stratofortress which was dedicated in 1984 with "honor, respect and appreciation to those who lost their lives in Southeast Asia." The bomber has a take-off weight of 450,000 pounds, a tail height of 48 feet, a 185 foot wingspan and carried a bomb load of 60,000 pounds. The plane completed more than 600 missions in Vietnam before "retiring" to the museum.

Group or individual tours are available and there is a gift shop at the museum which features aviation-related specialties.

Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and from noon to 4 p.m. during the summer. It can be reached by taking I-94 to Belleville Road, traveling north to Tyler Road and turning west on Beck Road. The museum grounds can be entered through the second gate on the left.

Information is available by calling 483-4030.

Cancer: Don't lose any friends during July horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Finishing up projects at work or in your career are important in order to clear up matters in your personal life. The playful side of you should be your response to power struggles. If you lose your sense of humor, you'll lose the battle on every level. See the obstacles for what they are. Don't try to see how to avoid the obvious. Take it on directly. Be willing to pay the cost for what you want. If you aren't willing, you lose what you're striving for. Use your creativity and don't rush the process.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Discussions about heavy issues - religion, politics, philosophies, belief systems - can dominate the conversations. The rules are discussed to death. Home becomes true sanctuary where you can be yourself without fear of judgement or rejection. Relationships are liable to become a power struggle area of your life. There is no point in playing the game. Back down and let it go. You need support within the circle of those closest to you. If they don't believe in you, you'll probably cross them off your list in some way. You must know who are your supporters. You've got great accomplishments coming up and you want your crew united.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Finish up your financial obligations - pay off debts and make room in your life so you don't feel so darned crowded. This month you pay for your play. There are no free lunches. Toward the end of July, you may have an opportunity for public speaking and recognition. This can be very beneficial to your career. Open communications between yourself and those close. They may be holding a lot inside and you can trigger an outpouring of feelings. Be kind and understanding because they really feel vulnerable. Don't ever betray that trust being shown.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) If you break any rules spoken or unspoken, you may lose a very good friend. Honesty is so important right now to relationships of all kinds. Share your feelings with those who care. If you confide only in strangers, you'll be very disappointed at the lack of confidentiality. Activate your belief system in yourself. You could be teaching and making money doing it. Whatever your skill, consider teaching a class or, at least, sharing your knowledge with a group in some way. Watch words so that you don't get too sharp or hard with others. You could have a tendency to push too hard. Career is making a major transition so lean into it and don't resist it. Money will reflect what you put value on.

star sights

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may leave a job or make a decision to leave anyway. All those things which have been driving you crazy are going to get handled this month. If you've been neglecting your health, you'll have to pay the price for it now. If you've been careful and health-oriented, you may see the reward for it this month. An opportunity for all kinds of new beginnings and solid renewals start to kick into gear towards the end of the month. Work on confidence and self-esteem. You'll be preparing for the cycle you are starting now. It will require a lot of high energy and confidence, so nurture it well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Disciplining others may fall into your lap. Be careful and don't go overboard. If people are not living up to their potential, you could feel very exasperated and frustrated. Try to lighten up on that feeling so you don't overreact. Being kind and encouraging can provide you with a support person who promotes and supports you in ways you may not be aware of until much later. What appears to be a negative could be a fantastic opportunity in disguise. If you become angry, you could be blinding yourself to this and really miss the boat! Anger is not helpful to you in any way. It will work against you every time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Kindly, lovingly laying down rules for those in your environment will occupy a large measure of your time and thoughts. Clearing up clutter and messes are part of the cycle this month. Set some long-term goals and activate the first seeds of that new direction. You may be in the public eye a lot more than usual this month. It will benefit you so don't cancel out or postpone. Love can be more than you've asked for, so be prepared to make some serious choices. Only deal with what is, not with potential or promises - only with the now!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) You could be too hard on others who don't agree with you this month. Be aware of this attitude so you can give others their space to have their own opinions. You can learn more by listening this month. Even though others don't agree with you at all, it doesn't mean they are wrong. Put all that energy into promoting your career and letting others know what your goals are so they can support you if possible. Don't judge others by their current status. They could be in a different position later, and you could be very surprised who they know. Don't burn bridges behind you whatever you do!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) If obligations are totally overwhelming, it may be best to step back and let the things fall into place where they're going to, and then start with what is there when the dust settles. Your values and rules are becoming very firm - right or wrong. There are no gray areas. Make sure you can live up to them, because the next phase is where you are put into the position of making the same value judgement. It won't be easy, so be careful what rules you pronounce.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may have the opportunity to clarify your position with a partner. Communications open up and heartfelt emotions are expressed in a loving and nurturing way. It will be a permanent softening of your heart. You'll be surprised at how others start to respond to you. Financial rewards will be in line with the openness in your heart. More love enters your life than ever before. Career changes are part of the reward cycle here, so don't resist it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your fears concerning your work and your security are cleared away once and for all. Good news is probably leaked through the grape vine. Keep contacting those who can further your career and your goals. Send resumes. Romance improves later in the month with candles, soft music and the whole romantic package. Be careful of your words because you may hurt without realizing it. Inspire others to be self-starters and then set the good example.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You're letting go of an old goal that never really worked for you. It's being replaced with a much better goal that not only feels good and works great, but will nurture others as well. The old goal is now a tremendous restriction, so push it out the door. Your work, at last, is finally about to provide you with the recognition you so badly need. Ask for that raise, especially toward the end of the month (but, after the 16th). Your need for independence is coming to a point of "claim it or forget it."

Museum celebrates history

In celebration of the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, a three-part program will be conducted daily throughout the summer at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

The program will utilize role-players to relate how the Constitution has affected them. There is no additional charge for the program other than the admission fee to the village. The adult price is $8.50 and children between the ages of five and 12 are admitted for $4.25.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH,

Chinese flavor captured at Westland restaurant

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

It was my first foreign assignment as a professional journalist. A clean notebook was in hand, and I clutched the story-request form with a deep degree of determination. I was ready for anything.

My car glided through the streets as I contemplated in my head a list of very poignant questions for my subjects. At last I had arrived at my destination. It was China. It was a Cantonese heaven — pagodas, chopsticks, those cute umbrellas they put in your drinks. I was in Westland.

Okay, so I have a keen sense of adventure and imagination. But I have never been to China, have no immediate plans to do so, know only one Chinese word — ka-ra-te — and a visit to the China Star Palace at 262-270 Wayne Road seemed like the best alternative.

The exterior of the restaurant with its bright, colorful Cantonese shapes and designs was an appropriate indication of the quality food I would receive inside. I was greeted by restaurant owner Jane Wong — but only after I had rubbed the belly of the rather large, ceramic Buddha figure sitting atop the counter and after being subsequently slapped by my fiancée for inappropriate and unprofessional behavior while doing a restaurant review. (I had heard that people become pregnant by rubbing the Buddha's stomach so I thought I'd give it a try.)

The interior of the restaurant made the outside seem pale in comparison. Wong told me that she and co-owner/husband, William, recently renovated the three interior dining rooms to the more modern Chinese atmosphere now found there. According to the owners, the work was done by a noted Chinese interior designer who had worked on similar projects at the famed Mai Kai restaurant in Florida and in Lana Turner's restaurant. The work was, indeed, impressive even for this American-raised writer who at first mistook the cords dangling from the chandeliers for graduation tassels.

Born near Canton, China, Jane Wong said the two opened the local restaurant 15 years ago because "don't all Chinese people open a Chinese restaurant?" Well, if they do, their food just can't compare with the food I was served at China Star.

First came the mixed drinks. Peach frozen daiquiri for me and a strawberry colada for Debbie, my fiancée. Both were outstanding, and I even swiped Debbie's little umbrella without her noticing.

Next was the decision on our orders. Debbie said she was the expert on almond chicken and opted for this dish, which Wong later told me is the most popular of the more than 50 menu items. I chose the bow low gai kow — skinless and boneless breasts of diced chicken mixed with crisp, tasty Chinese vegetables and pineapples, all mingled in a delicious Chinese sauce. Right away you can tell that I hated it!

But wait. We're only giving our orders.

Debbie received egg drop soup, and I opted for the won ton. Both were homemade and out of this world, hot, delicious... and the crispy noodles given to us along with our soup were nice to snack on while eating.

Next came the egg rolls which we both quickly devoured. A tasty sweet-and-sour sauce was served with the rolls, a sauce that did overpower the well-cooked taste of the egg roll itself.

And the rolls... I have often said that I judge a restaurant by the quality of the bread basket. If I held steadfast to that rule at China Star, my review could end right here with an A-plus rating.

I'm not sure what was in the rolls — although I know that whatever it was, it was heavy because these weren't the rolls that when packaged can be used as a frisbee by the kids in a crunch — they were delicious.

Now for the meal. Of course, the silver, serving dishes were all in place to keep our food piping hot. Along with Debbie's almond chicken and my gai kow, rice was served. What more could we ask for. The meals were superb beyond a doubt.

China Star Manager Pai Eshelman

To top off our meals, waitress Colleen Yip brought us almond and fortune cookies, which brings to mind my often-asked question as to how the fortunes in the fortune cookies keep from burning in a cookie that is obviously somehow cooked. But that's another story...

I was sure that my fortune would tell me how lucky I was to be able to sample the delicious food at China Star. It didn't, but a fellow customer did.

"The food here is the very best. Believe me," explained Coy and Helen Johnson of Belleville who had just finished their meals. "We travel 35 miles to come here, sometimes four times a week. And we pass dozens of Chinese restaurants along the way. But you won't find food this good anywhere else but here."

He didn't have to convince me — I was already impressed. And the bill? Quite reasonable, considering the generous portions both of us received.

A wonderful meal that I highly recommend!

YOUR CHOICE; METHOD OF HEALING

Those of us who are in ill health, will seek the services of one who is trained in the healing arts. We wish to place ourselves under the care of one who will restore our health. If we have never been under chiropractic care in the past, we will then wish to know what chiropractic can do for us? Will it improve my condition? How will chiropractic restore my health?

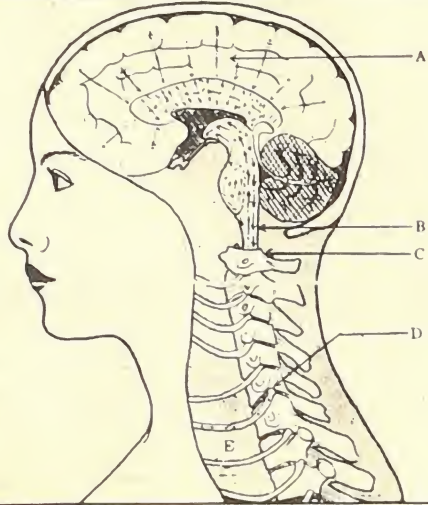

As a chiropractic patient, you will receive no drugs or undergo no surgery for your sickness. How then will you get well without the use of drugs or surgery? To properly understand this, we must realize that there is A CAUSE OF ILL HEALTH. This cause must be found and corrected to restore good health. What is this CAUSE and how can chiropractic correct it? After your case history has been taken, a SPINAL EXAMINATION will follow to locate the cause of your sickness.

SPINAL EXAMINATION

By use of X-Ray machine, nerve tracing instruments or by feeling (palpation) the chiropractor examines the spine. He will then determine if there are any vertebrae (bony segments of the spine) out of place thus causing pressure upon the nerves. But why examine the spine when our trouble is elsewhere? WHAT HAVE THESE OUT OF PLACE VERTEBRAE TO DO WITH OUR ILLNESS? WHAT IS NERVE PRESSURE?

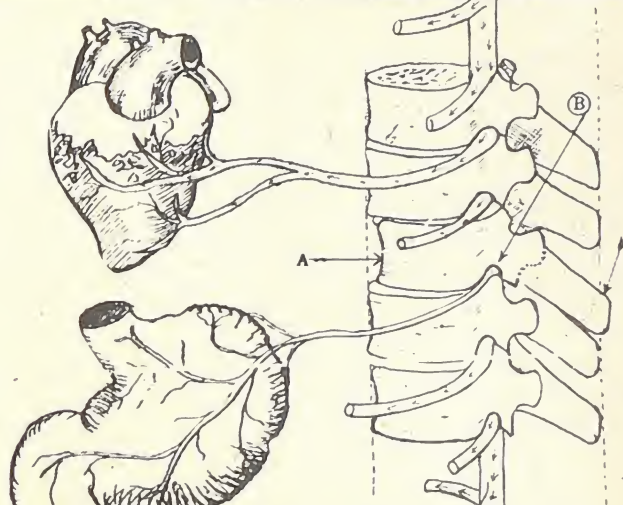

All our bodily functions such as digestion, heart beat or breathing receive mental impulses or nerve energy from the brain, (A). These mental impulses flow down spinal cord, (B). Spinal cord enters spine, (C). Small openings between vertebrae (D), permit nerves, (E), to emerge and to carry these vital mental impulses or nerve energy to all parts of our bodies. [See next page.] THESE VERTEBRAE ARE MOVABLE. THUS WE CAN SEE SHOULD A VERTEBRA SLIP OUT OF PLACE, THAT WOULD NARROW THE OPENING THUS PINCHING THE NERVE.

NERVE ENERGY: FROM BRAIN TO BODY

Our spine consists of 24 movable bony segments called vertebrae. The spinal column is not a solid bony structure. Rather it is hollow in its center to permit spinal cord, (A) to enter at the top and continue through its center to bottom of spine, (B). In between each vertebra are small openings to permit nerves, which branch off spinal cord, to emerge and to be distributed to various organs.

SUBLUXATION: THE CAUSE OF SICKNESS

Since our vertebrae of the spine are movable, it is then possible for one to slip out of place, (A). When this happens, it will narrow opening (B) thus pressing upon the nerve. This is called a subluxation. It will interfere with normal flow of nerve energy. Any interference with the normal transmission of vital mental impulses or nerve energy from brain to organs will result in sickness.

X-RAY EXAMINATION

Very beneficial in the examination of the patient is the X-Ray machine. If your chiropractor advises an X-Ray examination, your spine will then be X-Rayed, perhaps at different angles, to reveal its condition. Spinographs (X-Ray films of spine) are of great aid in locating subluxations.

X-RAY ANALYSIS

After the X-Ray's have been taken, the films will be analyzed to determine if a subluxation is present. If the X-Ray films reveal a vertebra that is out of place, these same films will then aid the chiropractor in determining how to correct this subluxation.

THE SPINAL ADJUSTMENT

If the spinal examination reveals a subluxation, the chiropractor will then, by the use of his hands, adjust that vertebra in order to restore it to its normal position. The spinal adjustment is completed by the chiropractor with skill and efficiency with no discomfort to the patient.

SUBLUXATION: BEFORE AND AFTER ADJUSTMENTS

Section of spine at the left illustrates a vertebra that is slightly out of place. This subluxation will narrow small opening between vertebra (A) from which nerves emerge leading to various organs. (See page 6) View at right shows how subluxated vertebra is restored to its normal position by spinal adjustments. OPENING BETWEEN VERTEBRA (B) IS NOW NORMAL.

THE CERVICAL OR NECK REGION

THE MOST FREELY MOVABLE part of the spine is in the neck region. Here the cervical vertebrae are constantly articulating as we move our head in different directions throughout our daily activities. While this movement is normal, an abrupt turn, work or play habits that tend to keep head in certain positions for long periods of time, falls, strains and even sleep (improper head support) may cause a subluxation in this region.

UPPER CERVICAL ADJUSTMENT

Because the spinal cord leaves the brain and enters the spinal canal in the cervical (neck) region, a subluxation occurring here may put pressure upon the spinal cord, (A). This will interfere with the normal flow of vital mental impulses to the body and organs. To correct this condition a NECK OR UPPER CERVICAL ADJUSTMENT will be necessary to restore vertebra to its normal position, (B), thus relieving pressure upon the spinal cord.

Many times a patient will have a chronic subluxation, (one of long duration) This subluxation may have developed over a period of time through certain work habits or perhaps during other activities that put a strain on the spine. It may be the result of a previous accident, fall, or strain. A subluxation of long standing may impair the efficiency of the surrounding muscles and tissues. That efficiency must be restored. Therefore adjustments over a period of time may be necessary to restore vertebra to its normal position.

Because of the nature of his work, the industrial worker is frequently subject to back injuries and strains. Lifting, loading, or perhaps certain machine or bench work may cause back trouble. Also subject to various back mishaps is the farmer. TIME LOST FROM WORK WILL BE LESSENED when the worker is put under chiropractic care following back injuries. At the same time, if a subluxation is present, it will be corrected thus preventing sickness later as a result of nerve pressure.

Area farmer grows into market hero

Flowers, meats and vegetables burst with brilliant colors as the morning sun shines from behind tall hundred-year-old grain silos at Eastern Market in Detroit.

Hundreds of consumers, retailers and wholesalers are busy scurrying back and forth, seeking better bargains from local farmers. And in the midst of it all, John Schwartz, 63, of Canton — like his father and his father before him — stands ready for another day of business in the timeless market of traditions.

"This is the old-fashioned, hard way to sell," said Schwartz, who several days each week packs his truck with greenery grown on his Lilley Road farm and travels more than 30 miles along Michigan Avenue to the market. He has been making the trek to the market for as long as he can remember.

"My grandfather drove a horse and wagon down these same roads. Few things about the market have changed," Schwartz explained.

But some things do change, Schwartz was quick to admit. A major grower and distributor of house plants and flowers, the Canton Township man can himself be credited with some significant changes to the Eastern Market lifestyle as well as that of his Canton Township hometown.

As a founding member and first president of Metro Growers, an amalgamation of local market farmers, Schwartz helped initiate Flower Day at Eastern Market 15 years ago. Today, people fill the market profile

"shoulder to shoulder" on Flower Day, so much "you can barely walk," Schwartz said.

In addition, the Canton native serves as a board member and was a past president of the Canton Rotary Club. He also serves on the citizen advisory boards for Oakwood Hospital and Canton Library, and for 10 years has served on the Canton Country Festival Committee and was the original chairman.

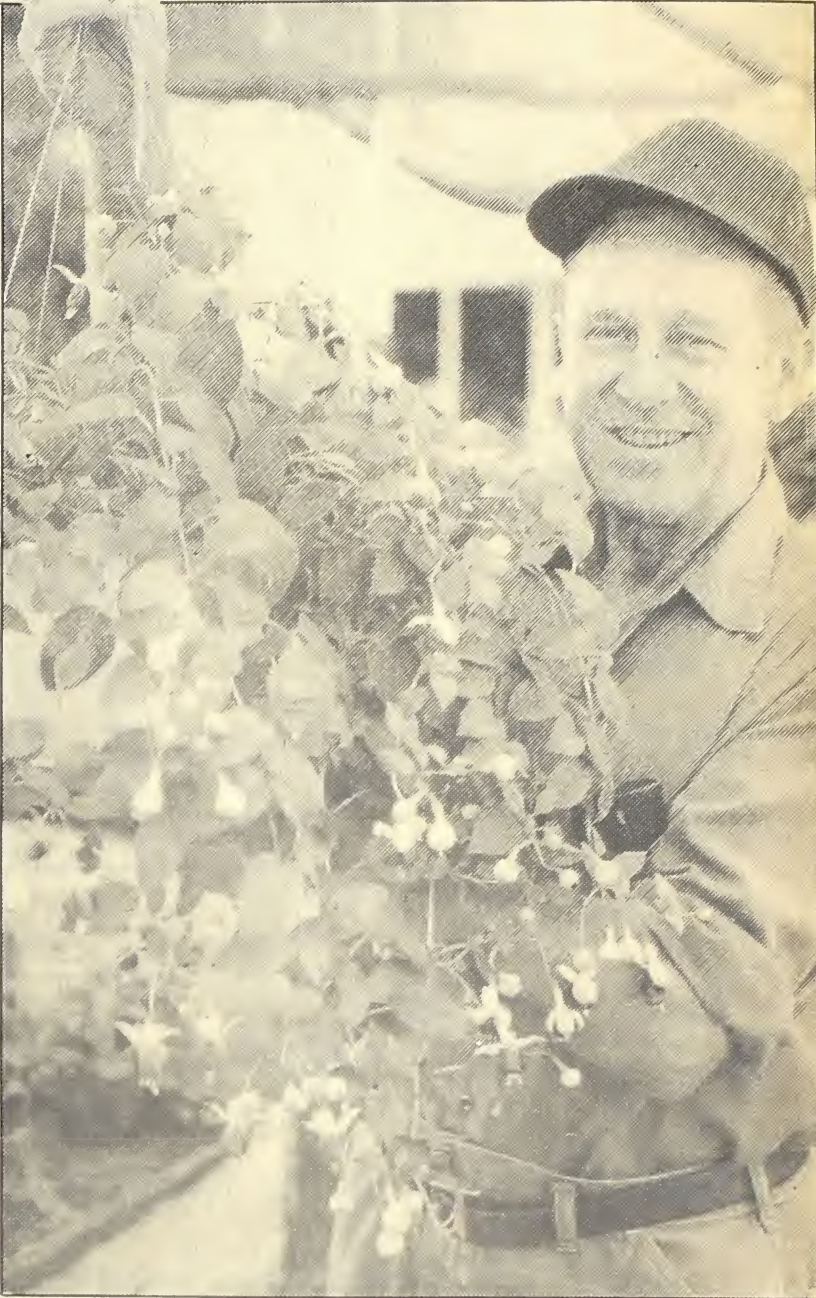

He belongs to the Canton Chamber of Commerce and has served as president.

Schwartz and his wife, Mary, of 32 years enjoy working together on various community projects. Mary also manages the family retail flower shop — Schwartz Greenhouses — in front of their home on Lilley Road. They have two children, David, 32, and Amy, 30.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: What kind of farming do you do?

SCHWARTZ: First, we were truck gardeners and farmed 35 acres. Now we don't sell vegetables, and technically we're floriculturists. We produce and sell only flowers and houseplants.

I would say flowers are more challenging and complicated. I'm not by any means one of the largest flower growers. Some farmers come from northern Ohio where greenhouses cover between 20 to 30 acres. We don't have automation either like many of them, which is important when you buy a teaspoon of tiny begonia seeds that cost $1,000 and sell by the sixty-fourths or two-hundred-twenty-eighths of an ounce. It helps to sow them with machines. One ounce or 250,000 petunia seeds cost $1,200. That's wholesale!

ANP: What changes have occurred with farmers and the market over the years?

SCHWARTZ: We sold at the Western Market until it closed down in the mid-60s. The Eastern Market has expanded considerably in the past few years. The crowds are noticeably larger, yet the market is cleaner.

Outstanding seniors are being sought

Find them with members of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, churches or Chambers of Commerce — find them anywhere — but the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging is seeking seniors to be a part of the annual Senior Citizen of the Year Awards.

Outstanding older citizens in the categories of service and leadership have already netted a number of applications, contest officials report, but more entries are being welcomed before the July 31 deadline.

The program is a joint project of the Commission and Michigan State Fair. Application forms are available by calling (517) 373-0049.

Now, Wherever We Have A Bank, You Have A Bank.

Manufacturers Bank has combined all of its local offices in Detroit, Livonia, Novi, St. Clair Shores and Southfield into one single bank.

So from now on, wherever you see a Manufacturers Bank sign, you'll be looking at one bank. And no matter where you live or work in metropolitan Detroit, you'll have access to the quality service at all of our 98 Detroit area branches.

Plus, no other bank in the area offers you the convenience of 72 branches open on Saturday with 25 of those having full lobby service.

So, now it's a lot easier to bank where business banks. Manufacturers Bank.

Area Lutherans echo national sentiments

Dozens of ministers from Lutheran churches in the area are applauding the merger of more than five million members of that religion in January into a new Evangelical Lutheran Church of America. However, those same ministers admit that the fight for national Lutheran unity is far from ended.

"The church is always ready to unify," said the Rev. Roger Aumann, pastor of Christ the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church on Cherry Hill Road in Canton. His congregation is a part of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which did not join the merger.

Before the birth of the new religious faction, Lutheran churches in America were comprised of five major groups, or synods. Three of the synods — the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church and the Evangelical Lutherans in Missions — participated in the merger to form the new Evangelical Lutheran Church. Two synods — the Missouri and Wisconsin synods — chose to retain the autonomy present before the merger.

church

Prior to the merger, the Missouri synod, with three million members, and counterpart Wisconsin synod comprised the largest of all five church factions. Today, however, the newly formed Evangelical Lutheran Church of America has taken on that characteristic for its own.

The recent reorganization of the church as a whole echoes the 16th century split of Lutheran church founder Martin Luther from the then Roman Catholic Church. According to local ministers, Luther had disagreed with certain Biblical interpretations of the Catholic Church and began what is today the Lutheran religion. But after more than 300 years, church members still have not collectively been able to agree on common doctrines, and the five separate divisions of the church serve as proof.

"The primary division centers around the interpretation of the Bible," said the Rev.

Paavo Frusti, pastor of Salem Evangelical Lutheran Church on Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. He and his congregation are members of the Missouri Synod.

Specific issues which divide the Lutheran groups include the distribution of Holy Communion among non-members and the ordination of woman, Frusti said. Both rituals are accepted in the new church but not by the Missouri and Wisconsin synods.

A commission was formed in the late 1970s to look into the possibility of a merger, according to the Rev. Drex Morton, assistant pastor at St. Michael Lutheran Church on Sheldon Road in Canton. St. Michael belongs to the Missouri Synod.

"There was a mandate for merger," he said. "We felt we could work together and achieve the same objectives. The possibilities were explored, and in 1982 the groups decided to work toward merging."

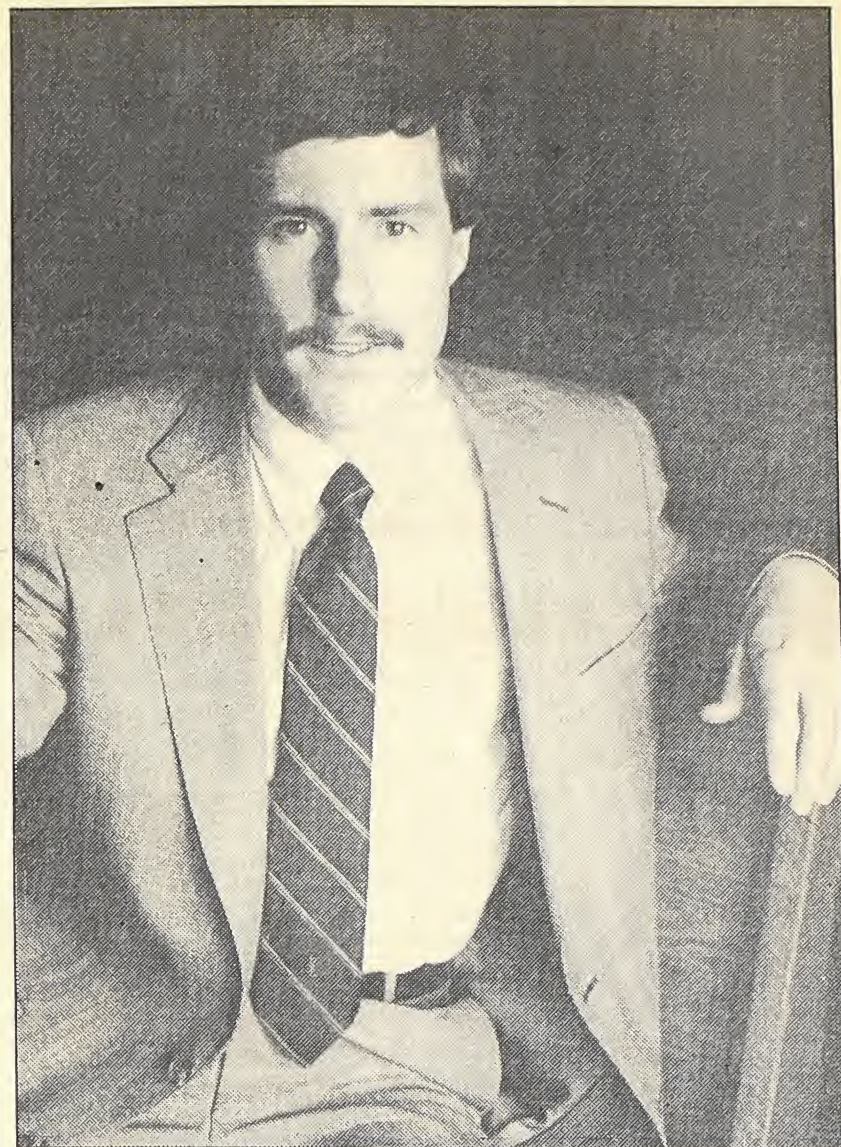

After votes by individual members and church officials were cast, more votes were tallied at a national convention of the commission last September. The new church became a reality after beginning Jan. 1, 1987, and a constitution was adopted in April.

"Frankly we're excited. There are many questions and answers. But a big reason for the merger is emotional or even nostalgic. We want a unified Lutheran church in America. The merger transcends theological issues. Many have yet to be addressed," Morton said, adding that in 1988 and for the next seven years, church members will decide exactly what they believe. By 1995, Morton said, new Lutheran church officials hope to establish and be able to write down common beliefs and customs.

The Rev. Larry Rorem, pastor of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church on Palmer Road in Westland, explained, "Basically, there was little that separated us. It's not so much that there are three ways of believing as there are three ways of doing things. The vote in our congregation was unanimous."

The church members voted to join the new unified church.

Who is to blame, pit bull or owner?

The topic of discussion in most of my classes this week has been the pit bull biting incident that took place in Detroit.

Before I begin, let me state that the viewpoint expressed here in this column is mine and not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper's editor and/or workers. I feel qualified after 20 years in the dog training business to express my opinion about the two pit bulls.

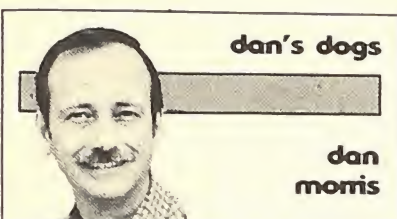

Without knowing the man who suffered the bites or having any firsthand knowledge about the two dogs, I can only voice my opinion based on the amount of information covered by the television networks.

I was fortunate to have been interviewed this past week by Mike Holfeld, of the Channel 7 news department. Holfeld was most gracious and an extremely intelligent interviewer. He showed a sincere interest in getting to the crux of the pit bull matter. Unfortunately, the time element prevails in TV reporting and all we were able to express about why the dogs were aggressive toward the man was boiled down to a short statement; the dogs, as they were reported to have acted, acted like "fear biters."

Fear biting has been written about and covered by this very newspaper in the past. Here, in a condensed list, is what factors cause a fear-biting dog:

- Dogs left in a yard alone without any supervision.

A dog alone in the yard has and receives no socialization. It is afraid of strangers. Because of that fear, it will bite first, without evaluating the situation, because it doesn't know what to expect from the stranger.

- A dog chained on a "run."

A dog chained in the yard or closed-in area (as the pit bull male was to have been) is close to, but not really around people. It barks and lunges at people passing by who, in turn, torment it by yelling at it, teasing it, throwing things at it. These people are brave, because the dog is tied up — kind of like laughing at a box of T.N.T. until someone lights the fuse.

I get so exhausted trying to convince people that the breed of a dog is not an issue. The issue is how that particular dog was treated — how that particular dog was raised — that really determines the disposition and temperament.

The pit bull, again, gets a bad rap, too bad. The same incident would have taken place if the dogs were cocker spaniels, poodles, shepherds, it doesn't matter what breed the dog is. What really matters is what "type" of person owns that breed, because a dog is always a reflection of the home environment or the environment it is most exposed to — good or bad. It's kind of like children.

Johnson speaks loudly on issues

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When Ronald Johnson talks, city council members listen.

And so does the administration and those who attend city council meetings.

Johnson is an articulate spokesman for the community and the issues he addresses usually are the concerns of most citizens.

Ronald Johnson

Like the other night, the 51-year-old electronics specialist urged council members and the administration to investigate the unbearable odors emanating from the Environmental Waste plant on Princeton. Or, like a few weeks ago, when Johnson related how rowdy teens were trespassing on the rights of citizens, "and it must be stopped."

While most citizens usually are "no shows" at council meetings, Johnson isn't. He also isn't hesitant when it comes to moving directly into the eye of the tornado. He will question and challenge elected officials; he will offer to serve on committees and panels in hopes of finding solutions.

"I believe it is our obligation and our responsibility to make our views and opinions known to our elected officials," Johnson said. "It's their prerogative to do what they want after they hear me out. And, if I find they are not acting or reacting to what I have to say, I, like every other citizen in this city, state and country - have the right of voter. I would work to vote them out of office."

Johnson sounds like he's running for office. He isn't.

And, the reason why Johnson hasn't any political ambitions is because he is enjoying what he is doing presently, working for Ford Motor Company.

"When you are on council or in the administration, you are being paid to research and search out solutions," said Johnson. I enjoy what I am presently doing. I make my decisions and draw my conclusions from what I see...judging the information I can personally gather. I don't have time for gossip and heresay and, in politics, to do the job right, you have to have the time to separate the gossip from the real facts."

A 1954 graduate of Inkster High, Johnson took up electronics at a trade school and became a product engineer with Ford Motor Company. Married to Martha, the Johnsons have two children: Rhonda 22, and Geoffrey 10.

Taking Care of Business

They have no official title. They receive little fame or glory. But the civic activists who attend council meetings, challenge controversial issues and remain watchdogs of our local governments have an important role in ensuring freedom for all. We salute those civic activists this week by taking a look at just a few of them. . .

O'Keefe takes law to heart

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Bob O'Keefe not only knows the first three words of the U.S. Constitution, he has made "we, the people" his personal creed.

Although the Van Buren Township resident admits that sometimes the wheels of government tend to turn slowly, O'Keefe is confident that the Constitution has provided Americans with the best form of government.

Bob O'Keefe

He believes in the message of the Constitution to serve all of the people and not individual interests. He also harbors no grudges against those who vote contrary to his choices, stating, "a 'no' vote makes the 'yes' votes more thoughtful and inciteful."

If "we, the people" have an opportunity to be heard and to have their wishes and ideas known before their elected officials make their decisions, then O'Keefe is satisfied that the spirit of the Constitution has been kept. He may not always be on the winning side of an issue, but O'Keefe does make sure that his side has a voice.

For example, he has been a supporter of the development of two apartment complexes - one of which has gained the approval of the planning commission. O'Keefe's lone interest in the issue is his support of growth for the township. He sees the potential of increased tax dollars for the township and the earnings of the new apartment dwellers being spent in area businesses. O'Keefe also voiced his disapproval of a lakefront resident's offer to buy Van Buren Park because "the land belongs to 'we, the people,'" according to the Van Buren resident.

O'Keefe has attended township board meetings - almost without exception - for the past three years. He is also a frequent member of the audience at public hearings and planning commission meetings. On occasion he comments on the agenda items, but, more often, he is a behind-the-scenes worker on local issues.

"I attended my first meetings not as a critic but as a student," O'Keefe said. "I came to find out about good government as defined by the Constitution."

O'Keefe finds it disturbing that so few people, other than representatives of the press, attend their local government meetings. More often than not, the only people present are those with an axe to grind or a vested interest in an item under consideration, he said. Consequently, there often is no representation of the citizen-at-large or anyone to speak up for the overall good of the community, according to O'Keefe.

Corrado helps by giving

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

There are movers and shakers in every community. In Westland, Sam Corrado is definitely one of the more active movers and has been for several years.

Corrado, who has lived in Westland for 17 years, has had his fingers in many pies in the community, so to speak.

Corrado has been instrumental in starting a number of things in Westland, including a successful neighborhood watch program.

The neighborhood watch program began after several concerned residents called Corrado to say that they were worried about a series of breaking and enterings occurring in the area.

Corrado said that after speaking with enough people, he knew that he had to do something that would alleviate the fears and called a community meeting, inviting members of the Westland Police Department to join in.

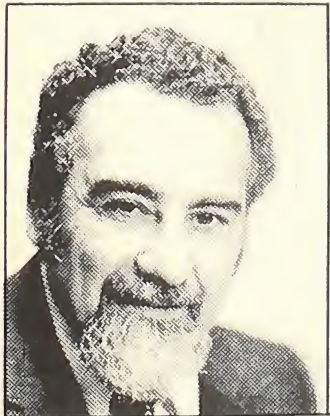

"We are not a crime-ridden community," said Corrado, "but, like any other communities, we, too, have problems that we would like to see cleared up."

With the support of many others, Corrado saw the neighborhood watch program get off the ground. Since the inception of the watch, local scouting troops and other groups have volunteered time and support through the staging of newspaper drives. Funds from the drives have generated enough money to purchase 28 new neighborhood watch signs.

Corrado also designed a public safety book for the city, which is expected to hit the streets sometime next year, providing he figures out a way to come up with the money to get it published.

But neighborhood watch programs aren't the only civic accomplishment of which Corrado can boast. Motorists passing by Gladys and Flamingo streets in Westland will be quick to notice a neighborhood park bearing the name of this civic leader.

"I don't personally want anything, I just like to be involved in my community. We're a total common-bond community, and when you've got such a great place to live, with such great people

Sam Corrado

Duo keeps council alert

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the Romulus City Council never have to worry about a lack of company during their decision-making meetings because Dorothy Icenogle, 76, and Clara Drogs, 74, are almost always there. The two local grandmothers are not consultants, planners or city administrators but are concerned citizens, concerned with the efficient operation of their hometown.

"We love politics. Many times we're the only audience there. We never miss a meeting, but I think some council members wish we would," said Icenogle who claims she has sat through thousands of council proceedings since long before Romulus became a city in 1970.

"I've been going since the days of the township supervisor," Icenogle said.

Icenogle accepted a "a partner" to her watchdog duties when she met Drogs four years ago. It was then that Drogs moved from her Romulus family farm into the Romulus Senior Towers in which Icenogle had been living since the building opened in 1980. Both women are widows with children and grandchildren.

"We volunteer on anything and everything," said Icenogle who is a member of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and last year received a gold pin for 40 years of service. She also serves as the senior representative on the board of the recreation commission, delegate to the nutritional program and trustee on Senior Citizens Club One.

"We like to see (the council members') reactions. And they watch us, too. Don't think they don't," said Drogs. "They watch us like hawks," added Icenogle who admits that the two are frequently caught by members of council giggling in reference to statements made by the council members.

Lawyer believes in ballot

By SHERRY WOODARD
ANP Staff Writer

Local attorney Larry Bowerman has a message for all the people in Canton Township who did not vote in the last election for trustees: Don't complain.

Bowerman, a 14 year resident of Canton, feels that people who do not take part in local government have no right to complain about it.

"I feel bad because they don't care enough," he said. "But it upsets me when sometimes they are the loudest voices when something is done by an elective body that they don't like."

Bowerman, 39, has served on the Canton Merit Commission which determines policy relating to township employees. He has also been a member of the Canton Country Festival Committee.

The father of three presently is a member of the local Democratic party. He has run twice for the Canton Board of Trustees, both times unsuccessfully.

"I got involved because I was interested in what was going on in the community," the northwest Canton resident said. "I have a strong belief that everyone should be involved."

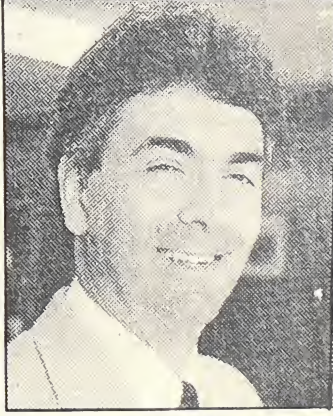

The danger of not getting involved in your local community is that your governmental body will operate "uncontrolled and unchecked," Bowerman said.

And then there is the pay off to him, the attorney said, explaining his desire to be involved in his community. "I know the board members that are in Canton Township right now," he said.

"Some of them defeated me but I can talk to them; say, 'hello' to them. So you get some gratification in expanding your acquaintances and hearing a different viewpoint," Bowerman said.

He added that he is presently disappointed at the Canton board. What is disappointing to Bowerman is, "that seven adults do not seem to be able to put their personal animosities aside to conduct township business," he said.

What can the average citizen of Canton do? "Vote against them in the next election," Bowerman advised.

JUST MARRIED

Fisher – Cesarz

Lisa Ann Fisher of West Bloomfield and Jeffrey Wayne Cesarz of North Carolina were united in marriage June 6 in a double-ring ceremony at St. James Episcopal Church in Birmingham. The Rev. Edward Schneider officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fisher of West Bloomfield. She is a graduate of West Bloomfield High School and Michigan State University where she obtained a degree in human ecology. She works at Diamond Investment Corp. in North Carolina.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Cesarz of South Christine Street, Westland. He is a graduate of John Glenn High School and the University of Michigan-Dearborn, where he obtained a degree in accounting. He works for the Dana Corp. of North Carolina.

The church was decorated with white, fuji mums and white bows on the pews. Music was provided by soloist Michael Bejian, organist Kent McDonald and trumpeter Joseph Kolar. Claudia Popoli, a friend of the bride, read from the Scriptures.

The bridal dress was a white, satin gown with lace, trim, long-scalloped train and puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and peach roses.

Laury Wood, the bride's sis-

Cool that summer meal with fancy frankfurters

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Love 'em or hate 'em, but everybody eats them.

They're hot dogs, and they're here to stay. As American as mom and apple pie, hot dogs have during the last few years been grossly underestimated in terms of culinary value. That is, until now.

Fran Altman, spokesperson with the National Hotdog and Sausage Council, explained that this summer between Memorial Day and Labor Day, more than five billion hot dogs will be consumed by hungry Americans.

And how many hot dogs really fill Tiger Stadium? Altman couldn't guess, but offered her own example.

"If laid end to end, these five billion hot dogs could circle the globe 15 times."

"Hot dogs are an American tradition. Sausage makers first produced them during the last century in Frankfort, Germany. Hot dogs were either eaten with a fork or in the hand," Altman said.

The American hotdog as we know it, she continued, was created first at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904 when a baker wrapped a soft bun around one of the then unusual treats.

Several America versions of the original hot dog have taken place since "the beginning," according to Altman. New Yorkers love their hot dogs covered with green relish and steamed onions. Chicago-style hot dogs are smothered with chopped tomatoes, relish, sliced cucumber and celery salt.

The renowned Coney Island hot dog, named after the New York amusement park, boasts the addition of hot chili poured over the hot dog. "And variations of the coney dog are everywhere," Altman said.

And just when you thought you had seen it all, the month of July has been proclaimed "Hot Dog Awareness Month." What's to be aware of? Altman has a few clues.

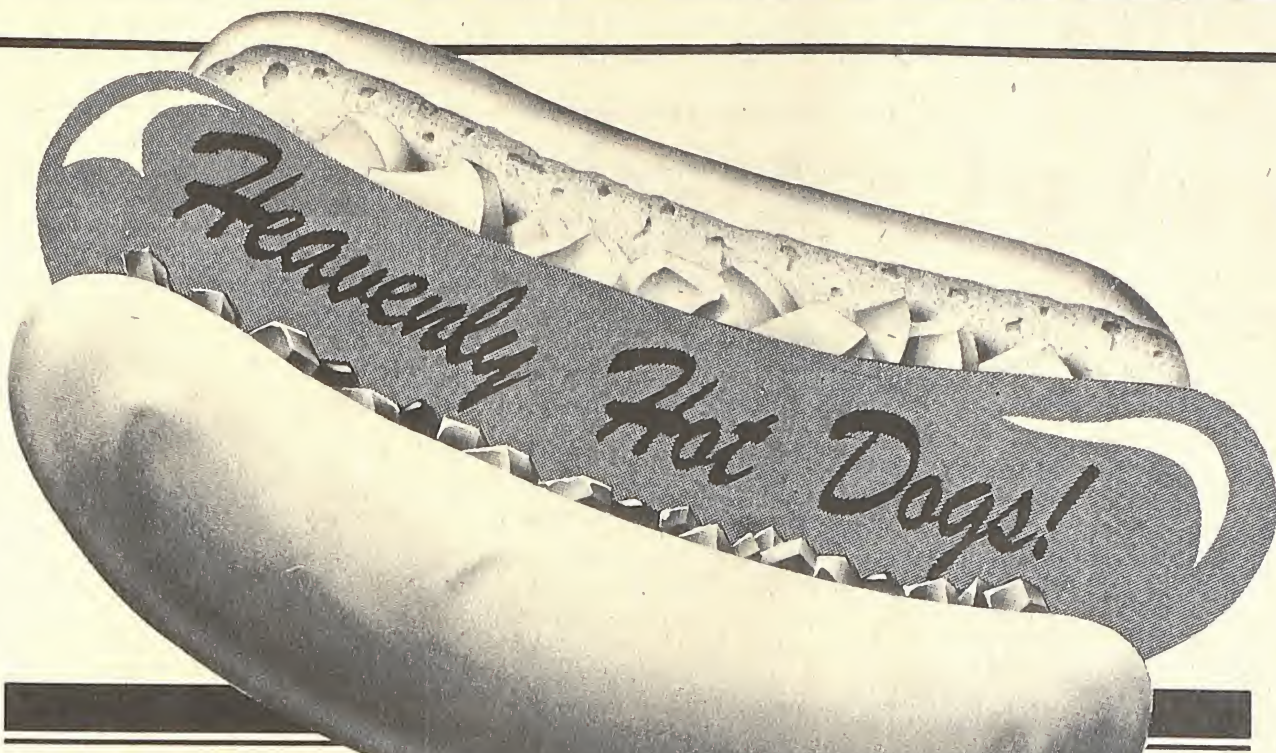

The original effort at hot dog education began 30 years ago, Altman said. It was then that producers wanted to promote the new "skinless" wieners. Today, 95 percent of all hot dogs sold are of the skinless variety.

"There's not a single hot dog restaurant with a national chain. Interestingly enough, in the best selling book by Lee Iacocca, he states that his father opened a hot dog stand in Pennsylvania after coming to America during the Depression. Today, his uncle and cousins are still making hot dogs at Yocco's restaurant, which is the way the Pennsylvania Dutch pronounced the Iacocca name," Altman said.

"One thing we found is that hot dogs are most popular among certain ethnic backgrounds. It is also a well-known fact that 85 percent of all people who attend a baseball game will eat a hot dog. But of the many hot dog variations, most people prefer their hot dog nestled in a plain bun with just a dab of mustard. It is the preferred condiment of choice," she said.

One local cook, Tom Marsh of Wayne, can still remember the way Howard Johnson's restaurant used to prepare hot dogs.

"There are hot dogs, and there are hot dogs! Howard Johnson's would slice the hot dogs down the middle and fry them in a little butter. Served on a bun, they came out great. There are a million things you can do with hot dogs," Marsh said.

Although not quite a million, here's a few ideas.

HOT DOG GRAVY

- 4 hot dogs
- 1 medium chopped onion
- 1 cup water
- 3 tablespoons corn starch

Slice hot dogs into half-inch pieces and fry with dab of margarine. Add onions and cook until transparent. Add water. Mix corn starch with just enough water to thicken mixture and slowly pour into frying pan. Serve over mashed potatoes, bread, rice or noodles.

GLAZED FRANKS AND BEANS

- 1 can 16-ounce pork and beans
- 6 hot dogs
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard

- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Slice hot dogs into half-inch pieces. Mix all ingredients together in casserole dish. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes four servings.

- From Jackie Lewis of Wayne

BAKED BEANS WITH HOT DOGS

- 2 cans 16-ounce pork and beans
- 1 medium onion, chopped fine
- 1/3 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 package 16 ounces hot dogs
- 1/4 cup thick barbecue sauce
- salt and pepper

Combine all ingredients together in 2- to 3-quart baking dish. Mix well. Bake in preheated oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Allow to sit for 10 minutes before serving. Can use grilled hot dogs for additional barbecue flavor.

GINGER'S WIENIE HORS DOEUVRES

- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup white sugar
- 12 ounces catsup
- 2 tablespoons grated onions
- 1 clove peeled and minced garlic
- 1 pound hot dogs

Cut hot dogs into 1 1/2-inch pieces and slice in half lengthwise (they should fan out). In medium-size saucepan, combine the sugars, catsup, garlic and onions. Simmer 45 minutes. Add wienies. Simmer for 1 hour. Best to prepare before time and heat just before serving. Have toothpicks ready.

CININNATI CHILI DOGS

- 1 quart water
- 2 medium onions, grated fine
- 2 cans 8 ounce-tomato sauce

- 5 teaspoons whole allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon red pepper
- 1 teaspoon ground cummin seed
- 4 tablespoon chili powder
- 1/2 ounce bitter chocolate
- 2 pounds ground beef
- 5 cloves peeled garlic
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 large bay leaf
- 6 whole cloves
- 2 teaspoons Worchester-shire sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

In 5-quart saucepan, add ground beef and water. Whip until fine in texture and slowly boil for 30 minutes. (It looks terrible.) Add remaining ingredients stirring until blended. Bring to a boil and simmer uncovered for 3 hours. During the last hour, cover. Should reach a thicker consistency. Skim fat off.

In Cincinnati, it's called a "Three Way" when the chili is poured over spaghetti and topped with shredded cheese. For a Four Way, you add onions to the Three Way. For a Five Way, serve with all of the above and some type of kidney or pinto bean. Can also be served over hot dogs, spaghetti or eaten plain.

- From Ginger Bruder of Willis

CORNEY DOGS

- 1 1/8 cup flour
  - 2/3 cup corn meal
  - 1 teaspoon baking powder
  - 1/8 cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1 egg
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1 package hot dogs
- Mix ingredients together in bowl. Boil hot dogs and then dip into batter. In frying pan or sauce pan, heat oil or animal fat. Place batter dipped hot dogs in oil and cook until golden brown on both sides. Makes 20 servings.

Outings are no picnic for cooks

It is, indeed, picnic time. Personally, I've always felt about picnics sort of the way I feel about a severe headache...you know, not really a good time but everybody has them.

First of all, in defense of my attitude about picnics, I do love the food. It's not the culinary aspect of picnics that causes my lack of enthusiasm. Actually, it's the work involved in preparing all that food, devising unique ways to make it portable and then unwrapping and packing it that I don't like. That and the bugs. Bugs I definitely don't like.

But, like headaches, picnics are a fact of life and cannot be avoided--especially in America where picnics, apple pie, mom and Chevrolet seem to be synonymous. And, if you are forced to embark on one of these expeditions, you need a dessert, NOT apple pie, thank you, that can withstand the rigors of transportation and still set you apart as one of the world's best cooks to be idolized and respected for your skill, talent and largess in sharing your wonderfulness with these peasants who actually want to go eat lunch on some lousy beach.

Well, when trapped in such a situation, there seems only one logical thing to do as far as I'm concerned, but if the pie shop is closed and the local bakery doesn't have anything I can pass off as homemade, I'd try one of these recipes.

All kidding aside, they will withstand transportation, within reason. Within reason excludes a 3-year-old sitting on them or the dog (who ALWAYS goes on picnics--it's the American way) slobbering on them or deciding to help himself.

So, if you can't wangle out of it, here are some suggestions to help you out in this time of dire need.

CARAMEL APPLE CAKE

- 1 3/4 cups all purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3/4 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups finely chopped, peeled apples
- 1/2 to 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 cup raisins, if desired

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 13 x 9 inch pan. Lightly spoon flour into measuring cup and level off. In large bowl, combine flour, brown sugar, salt, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon, vanilla, margarine and eggs. Beat three minutes at medium speed. Stir in apples, nuts and raisins. Pour into prepared pan and bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool completely.

FROSTING

- 2 cups powdered sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 cup margarine or butter, melted
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 to 5 teaspoons milk

In small bowl, blend all frosting ingredients until smooth and of desired spreading consistency. Spread over cooled cake. This should serve 15.

TREASURE CHEST BARS

- 2 cups all purpose flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- dash salt
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 3 milk chocolate candy bars, cut into small pieces (1.45 ounce size)
- 1 cup maraschino cherries, drained, halved
- 1 cup chopped mixed nuts

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 15 x 10 inch jelly roll pan. Lightly spoon flour into measuring cup and level off. In a large bowl, combine all bar ingredients except chocolate, cherries and nuts. Blend at medium speed until smooth, about two minutes. By hand, stir in chocolate, cherries and nuts. Spread in prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until light golden brown.

ICING

- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 cups powdered sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 to 3 tablespoons milk

In a small, heavy saucepan over medium heat, brown butter until light golden brown, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in powdered sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Add two to three tablespoons milk, and blend until smooth and of desired spreading consistency. Spread over warm bars. Cool completely. Should make 48 bars.

Great Lakes Games to star some of area's top athletic talent

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

While local teams and athletes will be competing next week in qualifying rounds of the Great Lakes State Games, at least one Westland family of athletes, figure skaters from Wayne, Canton Township and Belleville, will be getting into shape for Michigan's Festival of Sport when the games are conducted July 31 in Marquette.

The Southeast Regional phase of the Great Lakes games will be staged in Belleville beginning on Friday, July 17.

In the meantime, Karla Stewart, of Canton Township, Jacqueline Mitchell of Wayne, and Anjandra Guarini of Belleville are polishing up their ice skating programs to compete in the Games at Marquette. Westland will be represented at Marquette by the Becklehamer family - Michelle, Kelly, Kathryn, Gerry and Jeremi.

"These tournaments and the competition will help U.S. athletes get ready for the Olympics," noted Phil Kemp-painan by telephone from Marquette yesterday. Kemp-painan is a member of the publicity committee for the games. "Michigan is one of three sites chosen for our athletes to prepare for the Olympics. (The Olympic Games will be conducted in 1988 in Seoul, South Korea). And, right now, we have at least 800 athletes from across Michigan who will be coming here (Marquette) to compete in these games."

Kevin Bara, who is the Great Lakes State Games Southeast Regional Director, said the set is stage for the local games to be conducted in Belleville.

"Except for the state high school championships, I don't think sports fans in this area have ever seen anything like this before."

"I don't think sports fans have ever seen anything like this around here," Bara said. "We will have some of the top teams in the state coming here to Belleville to play in volleyball, basketball and to compete in wrestling. These teams and athletes are looking to qualify for the Michigan Games."

"I don't think the fans will be disappointed in what they will see here," Bara added.

Belleville is the host to the regional senior and junior men's basketball tournament as well as to girls and women's volleyball. Wrestlers will also be competing in freestyle in hopes of making it to the Michigan's Festival of Sport.

Wrestling competition will get underway at 8 a.m., Saturday, July 17 at North Junior High School, 45201 Owen, (Belleville), while they'll be spiking the volleyball at 10 a.m., Saturday, July 18 at North Junior High, 47097 McBride.

Basketball competition will be conducted at Belleville High School, on Friday, July 17.

Here is the Southeast Scholastic Girls Regional Championship brackets for Friday, July 17 at North Junior High School.

City championship golf tournament deadline set

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If past performance is the key to present and future performances, then don't wait to register for the 1987 City Championship Golf Tournament.

Those who have waited in the past usually were turned away or received late tee times.

"We have room for about 100 golfers in this tournament," said Bill Hawley, tournament manager, "and in the past we have had to turn away golfers because they waited until the final minute to get into it. The tournament is one of the highlights of the summer season for amateur golfers in the area."

The 1987 championship will be conducted the weekend of August 8-9 at the Fellows Creek Golf Course, 2936 Lotz Road. The tournament is set up to determine the city and township championships for Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus, Garden City, and Canton Township. And it is open to all amateur male golfers residing in the participating areas.

The defending champ is Michael Horn, who won a "sudden death" playoff over Kevin Ryan of Inkster last year.

The tournament has attracted some of the finest amateur golfers in western Wayne County since its conception in 1960.

"We expect another excellent field this year," Hawley said.

The tournament will be played two days, with the 18-hole first round conducted on Saturday, Aug. 8. The final 18 will be played on Sunday, Aug. 9.

In order to enter, please fill out the entry blank accompanying this story. There is a $33 registration fee which covers the two-days of golfing and trophy costs. Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in Tee off times will be published the week before the city golf tournament, and those who finish among the leaders will have the early tee times for the finals.

Additional flight competition will be conducted for each city if the total entry from one city warrants it. And, in case of a tie for a trophy, a "sudden death" playoff will be conducted to determine the actual winner.

Entries will be accepted at the city recreation offices and at the sports desk of the Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue. Please make checks or money orders payable to Bill Hawley, tournament manager.
